Justin McIntyre

I am an ambitious young man from New-Brunswick looking to make his debut in the Web-Development industry.

I'm an autodidact, which I understand is an asset in the Web-Dev space since continual learning necessary since the landscape is always changing.

And, I believe my experience as a lifeguard, a barista, and a remote intern, will be an asset in this position because I've learned how to operate effectively with limited supervision.

If you decide to make me an addition to your team, you'll be satisfied with the results
